The Initiative for a Competitive Inner City (ICIC) announced that Houston's J3 Resources, Inc. has made the 2018 Inner City 100 list of the fastest-growing inner city businesses in America, based on revenue growth. ICIC, a 25-year-old national nonprofit founded by Harvard Business School professor Michael E. Porter, promotes economic prosperity in America's inner cities through private sector investment that leads to jobs, income and wealth creation for local residents.

The list was revealed at the 20th Annual Inner City 100 Conference and Awards in Boston October 1-2. The full list is available on Fortune's website. J3 Resources, Inc., led by Lee & Cathy Poye was ranked #47 based on its growth rate from 2013 to 2017. Lee & Cathy attribute their success to a long list of loyal customers and an outstanding team of dedicated employees.

Said ICIC CEO Steve Grossman, "Inner City 100 companies are forces of economic opportunity, optimism and transformation in their communities. They lead the way in innovation, job creation and economic revitalization and it's an honor to shine the spotlight on their leadership and accomplishments. In addition to excellence in business, these pioneering entrepreneurs have demonstrated a deep commitment to and passion for their communities, which significantly impact the well being of their local economies".

"These businesses and their owners are a testament to the impact innovation and entrepreneurship have had in rejuvenating urban areas across the U.S. Companies such as J3 Resources, Inc. are experiencing revenue growth and increased investment, which are in turn creating more jobs and economic opportunity for citizens in the communities where these companies call home" said ICIC President and COO, Matt Camp.
